LETTER FROM GENERAL GRANT'S FATHER. -A private letter, from the father of General Grant, written on the 10th of July last, and addressed to an old friend, has got into print. After referring to some matters of interest between themselves, and telling how he came to be made postmaster at Covington, Ky., he speaks of his son, the General, as follows: You say something about my soldier boy. Horget what, but I believe you say you want to go to Washington when he is inaugurated President, and ask me if I will go with you. Oh, yes, certainly I will go, and hope we may have a nice time of it. Stranger things than that have happened, but not more strange things than that would have been four or five years ago. You know Ulysses is not and never was an aspirant for any personal favor or promotion. When the war broke out he felt that as the Government had calucated him for a soldier, and as it was likely soon to need his services, he would not withhold them, so he was among the first to volunteer for the war, and to say the very least, of it, his career has been a very remarkable one. You know he never asked for an office, a promotion or a command, or agreed to accept one when consulted. But when, appointed, promoted or ordered, he took righthold, and has commanded larger armies, fought more battles, taken more prisoners and more ordnance than any other general history gives an account of. You may have noticed that the Government and the people fully appreciated all he has done, and a good deal more. He was promoted from a private to a Brigadier General in a few months, and all the time placed in important commands. He was promoted, until there was no longer any rank to promote him to. Then the Cougress created a new rank of Lieutenant-General, and he was again promoted to that rank. Not satisfied with that, Congress has created a still higher rank, of what is called a full General, and yesterday the Senate confirmed his appointment to that rank. I suppose they will have to be content, as there is no other rank which can be created. But that is not all. The people have moved in every way; besides the promotions I have described, and the large substantial testimonials he has received, the people everywhere are disposed to do him honor. Take that altogether, don't that seem a little strange to you? It does to

Now, there is another thing which seems equally strange; the most ultra Radicals, the Worst copperheads, the desperate secesb, and the true Union men, all say : "Give us Grant, We want no other platform than that he has written with his sword."

You know enough about Ulysses to know that to accept the Presidency would be to him a sacrifice of feeling and personal interest. He could not well stand the trial of being a candidate for public favor and his present position is everywhere a much better one than that of President. But if there should seem to be the same necessity for it two years bence as now, I expect he will yield. Yours &c., J. R. GRANT.
